

Mevesi and Transaction Data Systems Form Strategic Partnership

Leading Business Intelligence Provider Collaborates with Pharmacy Management System

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Orlando, FL, October 18, 2012 – Mevesi, Inc. has announced their partnership with Transaction Data Systems, demonstrating their ability to meet Rx30 customers' ever evolving needs in today's pharmacy industry. The two companies partnered to provide Rx30's 4,000 customers Manage Rx, a business intelligence solution. Mevesi will provide the key underlying technology for Manage Rx, supporting Transaction Data System's dedication to the success of independent pharmacy.

Manage Rx streamlines the management of pharmaceutical information with a pre-defined set of easy to use dashboards, scorecards and summary reports. It provides insight into the business, stores, products, or market performance while also enabling users to effectively share critical information. Manage Rx creates, schedules, and disseminates custom reporting to an unlimited number recipients. In addition, NCPDP compliant reports can be sent to recipients such as drug manufacturers, patient assist programs (PAP), and government entities and third parties.

"In addition to providing Transaction Data Systems with an opportunity to be more competitive and offer more options to their customers, this partnership demonstrates our commitment to providing independent pharmacy with the ability to meaningfully analyze their data," says Omar Sosa, CEO of Mevesi Inc.

"The Mevesi business intelligence solution is designed to empower pharmacists to succeed in despite today's challenges. Rx30 customers who use Manage Rx are provided with the ability to increase revenue, improve customer service, and decrease costs," said Steve Wubker, CEO of Transaction Data Systems. "We are pleased to offer a service that offers pharmacists the opportunity to improve their business at a reduced cost."
